Sistema.bio on Unlocking Methane Mitigation, Rural Prosperity and India's Climate Future Through Biogas Solutions

When global climate accounting frameworks were originally designed, greenhouse gases were evaluated over a 100-year horizon, a reasonable starting point at the time, but one that inadvertently diluted methane's true potency.

AI's hidden water footprint: Why sustainable data infrastructure matters

India's data centres consumed an estimated 150 billion litres of water in 2025, a figure projected to more than double by 2030, underscoring where smarter infrastructure decisions, better policy, and coordinated investment can matter most. Now is India's chance to figure this out early and build digital infrastructure for the long haul.
